SPENDING MOTHER'S Day with her daughter Brenda for the first time in 11 years was Nettie Broadus of Pascagoula. Brenda, her husband Guy Ferguson, and their two sons — Robbie and Chris — make their home in Derby, Kans. 85

Mrs. Broadus was visiting in the Ferguson home while her grandson Chris was in the hospital for surgery. She was able to participate in Mother's Day activities which included a mother and daughter luncheon.

Mrs. Ferguson presented her mother with a corsage, a special Mother's Day cake, and a family portrait. Mrs. Broadus has returned to her home on the coast.

CHRISTMAS TIME IS family time in the home of Nettie Broadus, and that was certainly true for Mrs. Broadus and her family this year.

Returning home for Christmas was her daughter and her family, the Guy Fergusons of Derby, Kans. Mrs. Ferguson, the former Brenda Broadus, has not spent a Christmas at home in Pascagoula since she and her husband were married 11 years ago. Accompanying them were their sons, Robbie and Chris.

Sharing the holidays with the family was Guy's mother, Leona Ferguson of Bettendorf, Iowa, and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bridges of Plant City, Fla.

The Broadus home was also opened to other relatives who stopped by during the holidays, including Mr. and Mrs. C.H. McCormick of Orange Grove, their grandson Cheyenne and his wife Pam and son Robert; son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Gary Broadus of Pascagoula, with daughters

Christy and Lisa, and daughter Dianne Mason of Jackson, with her children David and Beth. Accompanying Mrs. Mason was her mother-in-law, Nina Lee Mason, who had been visiting in the home of her son, Dr. Woodie Mason, and his family. Dr. Mason was unable to make the trip to the coast.

While in Pascagoula, the Fergusons visited in the home of Mrs. Broadus' sister, Dora Yocom. Mrs. Yocom also welcomed home for the holidays her daughter, Jessie Faye Aldaz, who had not been home for Christmas in 15 years. Coming with Mrs. Aldaz from El Paso, Texas, were her husband Manny and their children Auggie, Kelly and Alex.

The warmth of the holiday spirit was matched by the warm temperatures as the coast celebrated the season, and the families enjoyed this extra touch of coastal hospitality. 85
